

ADDY AUDITION CUT (with Laura and Lisa)

LAURA

Oh hi Addy. Did Mom stay awake through her shows?

ADDY

She did – but after we went to the bathroom – I could see she was getting a bit tired. So I convinced her to take a little nap before dinner – especially since her hairdo is “protected”.

LAURA

Thank you Addy. You are indeed a treasure.

ADDY

It’s my pleasure. Really it is. She’s such a sweetheart.

LISA

Would you like some tea Addy? Or anything to eat?

ADDY

No – no – I’m all set.

Laura begins to hang the coat and put it back in the garment bag.

ADDY

Oh – so is that THE COAT?

LAURA

Yes – this is the coat. I’m putting it back in the bag so that we can give it to her tomorrow. (thoughtfully) Back in the day - she was always so happy when the coat was delivered. She would very carefully unzip the bag and immediately put the coat on. But then she was equally as sad when it came time to send the coat back to storage.

ADDY

It’s in great shape.

LISA

It really is. For a coat that was worn every day since 1970 – every day - from fall through winter. She wore it to work, to church, to grocery shopping, to PTA meetings... she wore it everywhere – even if it was just driving us to a friend’s house. (thoughtfully) There were times she even used it as a blanket.....

ADDY

I think that’s so cool. I love vintage and I love stories about vintage things.

LISA

You know – back then – if you said Barb Daniels – people would say Fur Coat. And if you said Fur Coat – people would say Barb Daniels.

ADDY

I’m glad I’ll be here when you give it to her. Speaking of which – can we review the schedule again? I’ll be here at 8:30 to get Barb dressed.

LAURA

Yes - and we will have already fluffed her hair and got her makeup done. So hopefully – we are looking at 10:30 to leave for the hotel.

ADDY

Great - I’ve got the van all cleaned and ready.

LISA

Wonderful.

ADDY

I have to tell you that when I was getting her onto her recliner - she was crying a bit. I asked her if she was missing her family and she nodded that she was.